Dear [Redacted]

Some weeks ago I requested the participation of someone from the Central Intelligence Agency in a panel which I was planning, to be entitled "Soviet Muslims and Their Middle Eastern Neighbors," to be presented at the Western Slavic Conference in Honolulu during March 18-21, 1982. At that time you kindly indicated that there would be someone who could do this and I wish to thank you for your good will and readiness to suggest someone to participate.

Since that time I have unfortunately been unable to complete the panel with the level of participants I wanted. Consequently, I have been forced to cancel the panel and to hope the idea may sometime have its day--perhaps when travel and hotels become less expensive. On this note of regret I wish again to thank you for your support.

Sincerely yours,

John A. White
